

Sell Alert: It's Time to Scoop Some Cream

Friends, today we're going to "scoop a little cream" off the top and book profits on multiple crypto projects. We're also exiting several positions.

I have all the details below. But first, let me tell you why we're booking profits today...

As you know, we have huge gains across the board. It's now prudent to take a little off the table, so you can recoup your initial investment and, in some cases, a whole lot more.

My focus in the crypto space is on the long-term trend... and it's still up. Over the short term, though, I've lived through enough pullbacks to recognize it feels good to lock in some gains even though I still believe all these projects will go higher.

Should we pull back, then great... We can buy back in. And if they just keep streaking higher, no problem... We'll still own them. Plus, I'll have a slew of new life-changing ideas for you as well.

On some positions, we'll scoop 20–30% off the top. Other positions, we'll exit entirely. We have profits in them... but they're not growing the way I envisioned they would. So I'd rather sell them.

Along with "scooping some cream off the top," it's time to get rid of our laggards. So we'll do some spring cleaning, too.

I've always said that some of the projects we get into just won't make it. Even with this big bull market, the names we're selling have still languished. So it's time to get rid of them.

What About Bitcoin?

This weekend, bitcoin surged to new highs above $58,000. I know many of you may have huge gains in bitcoin. So I want to congratulate you.

Since bitcoin is now above its buy-up-to price, my recommendation is, as you take profits on your coins, move into cash for now.

Remember, I can't give you personalized advice. So if you've already reached your "freedom number" to achieve the lifestyle you've always dreamed of, it's important that you think about what to do next.

If you're in that position... maybe it makes sense to book 80% of your profits and let the rest ride. My point is this: You must take full responsibility for realizing your gains if you've already hit your financial goals.

And if you're booking profits today, we'd love to hear your story. Tell us what you'll do with your profits right here...
